

D. H. DOUGHERTY & CO.

SHOES.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XVIII.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY

MORNING, JULY 24 1885.

ASLEEP AT LAST!

The Nation's Patient Begins His Eternal Rest.

DEATH OF GENERAL GRANT YESTERDAY.

He Peacefully Passes Away Surrounded by His Family.

SILENCE OF THE DEATHBED SCENE

The Last Night at the Sufferer's Bedside.

THE MEN IN GRAY AS WELL AS BLUE

Place Immortelles Upon the Bier of the Dead.

Mr. MCGREGOR, N. Y., July 23.—General Grant died at 8 o'clock this morning.

At nine o'clock last night one of General Grant's physicians conceded, with some caution, that the patient might survive until July 24. His meaning was that the sick man might yet live being when midnight should mark the new day. This prognostication was borne out and more. The general passed into the first hour of the day. He saw his light at sunrise, and through the early morning hours he still survived. The advent of July 24, however, marked a change in General Grant's condition which was significant. The chill at the extremities was increasing and the use of hot applications to keep warmth to the extremities and vital parts were resorted to. They were of some avail, but the artificial warmth was without power to reach the heart or the seat of life. Dissolution, which began steadily and had been progressing steadily, though slowly. Hypodermic injections of brandy were frequently given to stimulate the flagging physical powers, but later this failed to effect the patient, whose vitality and whose physical forces were so far spent as to furnish no footing for rebound. Indeed, the efforts of the medical men were being made because none could stand by in active and without the trial of experts, that might prolong life an hour or a minute. The physicians believed that the patient might reach the extreme of his strength at one o'clock this morning, and the approach of the hour was anticipated with intense anxiety at the cottage. It passed, however, and the general, lying upon his back and propped by two pillows, lay upon the cot in the parlor, yet living but groaning and gasping. His breathing was generally long, sickness ensued and death was generally near. The feeble pulsebeats had worn themselves by their rapidity to a fluttering throb that could not be gauged beneath the finger of the physician. The body was being worn out by its own life current, to rapid was its courting through the veins. Repeatedly brandy was entered beneath the skin of the general's arm, but despite his warlike influence his respiration had quickened from 40 to a minute during the evening to a point of labored breathing that was painful to the friends who were grouped and bent near the sick man.

"He is dead!" remarked the doctor quietly.

The fact of his having been absent from the side of the dying man and his family at the last moment was a cause of severe and sad regret to the clergymen who had waited all night at the cottage. He had been summoned from his breakfast a moment too late and reached the cottage only in time to minister to the family's sorrow, and to gaze upon the scarcely heaved lips of the dead general, to whom Dr. Newman's love had bounded him in such close ties of affection. Those who saw and knew, and all who loved him of the clergymen's family, at the death bed, quickly spoke the impulse of hearty sympathy.

EVIDENCE OF APPROACHING DEATH.

Two o'clock had passed and the evidences of nearing death were multiplying. The increasing respirations were not alone more rapid, but more shallow.

At 3 o'clock it was clear that he frequently attempted to draw, but was unable any longer to clear the gathering mucus from his throat. The pulse first indicated failure, and the intellect was the last to succumb its clearness and conscious tenacity, and that after midnight last night, though the circumstances at three o'clock indicated cognizance.

"What the doctors have to say."

Soon after Drs. Douglas and Shadry left the death-bed, he conversed feelingly of the latter hours of General Grant's life. The pulse first indicated failure, and the intellect was the last to succumb its clearness and conscious tenacity, and that after midnight last night, though the circumstances at three o'clock indicated cognizance.

"Do you want anything?" questioned Colonel Fred at that hour.

"Water," whispered the general, huskily.

But when offered the water and milk he gurgled in his throat and were ejected, and that one word of response was the last utterance of General Grant. The pulse first indicated failure, and the intellect was the last to succumb its clearness and conscious tenacity, and that after midnight last night, though the circumstances at three o'clock indicated cognizance.

"Yes," interjected Dr. Shadry, quietly, "the general is dead." When he felt that he had begun sinking, he asked that he should not be permitted to suffer. The promise was made and it has been kept. Since he commenced to sink Tuesday night he was free from pain. Towards the last no food was taken, but when a wet cloth was pressed to his lips he would suck from it water to moisten his mouth. During the general's last night Dr. Shadry was constantly within call. Dr. Douglas was all night at the cottage and Dr. Sands stopped at the hotel after midnight.

A SCULPTOR SUMMONED.

A few minutes before eight o'clock, Doctor Douglas, Shadry and Sands stood on the cottage veranda, conversing on the condition of General Grant, when the sound of his breathing was heard. A short distance away, when Henry, the nurse, stepped hastily upon the planks, and spoke quietly to the physicians. He told them that the general was very near death. The medical men hastily entered the room when the sick man was lying, and approached him. Instantly upon seeing the patient's face, Dr. Douglas ordered the family to be summoned by the bedside. Haste was made, and Dr. Grant, Mr. Jesse and wife, U. S. Grant, Jr., and wife, and Mrs. Colonel Grant, were standing behind the doctors at the sick man's cot. Mrs. Sartoris and Mrs. Dawson were conversing in the corner of the room, while the messenger was searching for him. General Grant sat himself at the head of the cot, resting upon a pillow above his head, with his eyes closed. He was peacefully and painlessly passing another life. Mrs. Sartoris came behind her mother, and leaning upon her shoulder witnessed the close of the life in which she had constituted a strong element of pride. Directly behind Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Sartoris, and a little distance removed, stood Dr. Douglas, Shadry and Sands, spectators of the dying life their efforts and counsel had so prolonged. On the opposite side of the bed was Mrs. Grant, leaning over her son, and the other family members.

Telegrams of condolence and sympathy are pouring upon the family of General Grant. Among those received yesterday were dispatches from ex-Premier Gladstone, G. W. Childs, General Logan, General Sheridan, who asked the privilege of being one of the pall-bearers, James G. Blaine, ex-president Hayes, Judge Hilliard, ex-Governor Collier, Chas. M. Depew, William M. Evarts, the Japanese minister, Rev. Bryan Sutherland and personal telegrams, in addition to those of relatives from President Cleveland, Governor Hill, of New York, and Governor Faure of Pennsylvania.

THE DAY ON THE MOUNTAIN.

Within a few hours of the general's death, the waiting engine of the mountain depot was on the way to Saratoga, to bring the undertaker to place the remains on ice to await the arrival of the New York undertaker, who had been summoned, and who is now on his way here. The details and arrangements touching the remains while they remain here until they arrive in New York, are in charge of James W. Drexel and W. J. Ackrell.

At the corner of the cot on the veranda, Dr. Jesse and his son, Mr. S. E. Dawson, the general's steward and confidential secretary.

At the foot of the bed, and going directly down into the general's face was Mrs. Colonel Fred Grant, Mrs. U. S. Grant, Jr., and Mrs. Jessie Grant, while somewhat removed from the family circle, Henry, the nurse, and Harrison, the general's body servant, were respectively watching the closing of the eyes of the patient and their master. Doctor Newman had repaired to the hotel to breakfast and was not present, and the general's little grandchild, U. S. Grant, Jr., and Nelle, were sleeping the sleep of childhood in the nursery room above stairs. Otherwise the entire family and household was gathered at the general's death bed.

The members of the family had been summoned not a moment sooner than was prudent.

THE PASSAGE INTO DEATH.

The doctors noted, on entering the room and pressing the bedside, that already the purplish hue, which is one of nature's signals of final dissolution, had crept beneath the finger nails. The hand that Dr. Douglas held was fast growing colder than it had been through the night. The pulse had dimmed beyond the point where the physician could distinguish it from the pulse beats in his own finger tips. The respiration was rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, to whom was spared the scene of an agonizing or other than peaceful death. The wife almost constantly stroked the face, forehead and hands of the dying general, and at times, as a passionate longing to prevent the event so near, would rest her head within his bosom. Mrs. Grant pressed both his hands and leaning forward, tenderly kissed the face of the sinking man. Colonel Fred Grant sat silently, but with evident feeling throughout. He began with a slight shudder, then a rapid and was a succession of shallow panting inhalations, but the happily approaching end was becoming clear of the painful fullness of the throat and lungs, and the respirations grew quicker and more rapid at the close. They also became less labored and almost noiseless. This fact was in its results a comfort to the watchers by the bedside, fallen foe that sent a thrill of grateful recognition through the heart of the south. His conduct toward General Lee and the southern army at Appomattox, and his firm stand in defense of their right to exist, his own conduct as a soldier, will always be a model for the action of other victorious leaders, and in the green leaf that shades man's path, the name of Grant will be held in mind all no personal prostitution of his place for money has ever been traced to his hand. He never had a friend, and his only enemy, a friend, was an honest soldier and made no war on women.

LOUISIANA SORROW.

NEW ORLEANS, July 23.—The flags on the public buildings were displayed at half mast, flying at half mast out of respect to the memory of General Grant. A dispatch from Baton Rouge says that immediately on receipt of the news there of the death of General Grant, Governor McEnery issued a proclamation ordering the flags to be placed at half mast, and the state capitol draped in mourning.

Governor McEnery's proclamation contains the following:

"Even he was still bearing some agony with mortal tortures, the sad eulogies of his countrymen expressed their grief, now to be uttered with deep lamentations. The great and noble captain of our country, the brave and magnanimous leader who is remembered by honor by soldiers of all countries. The news of his magnanimous and heroic conduct as president, the love people, with our own, do just honor to his memory, and remember those who are made desolate by his death. Let us, therefore, let our guns be fired tomorrow (Friday) between sun rise and sun set, and on the day which may be set apart for his funeral, let the flags on all state offices will be closed, and the flags on all the public buildings be displayed at half mast.

FLORIDA JOINS IN SORROW.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 23.—The constitutional convention in session at Tallahassee, adjourned today out of respect to the memory of General Grant. Governor Perry has issued a proclamation ordering all the state offices to be closed on the day of the funeral. In the city universal regret was excited here by the announcement of General Grant's death. The flags on many buildings were displayed at half mast. The United States courtroom was draped in mourning. The Daily Times Union will say editorially tomorrow:

"Southern soldiers and commanders (and the world over saw better) tested Grant's strong points, and it was generally gratifying at this solemn moment to recall the fact that from none of them came the voice of detraction. Lee and his army were repudiated, and the world outside respected one another. It was the armchair general who kept earnestly in the rear of the war that was disgraced, and around his ver let us remember that he was the greatest citizen of the public in our day."

GENERAL ORDERS MINUTE GUNS.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23.—The following general orders have been issued by Governor Harrison, through Adjutant Smith:

"STATE OF CONNECTICUT.—Adjutant General's Office, Hartford, Conn., July 23, 1863.—General orders No. 10, dated July 22, 1863, is herewith issued as follows: It is most painful duty in announcing to the National Guard the death of General Ulysses S. Grant.

"In honor of the immortal leader and whose memory the name of this city and the people of the nation will cherish forever, flags will be displayed at half mast over all the public buildings, and the armories from the time of the publication of this order until the close of the day of the funeral, and all the guns of 200 guns will be fired with intervals of five minutes between the ringing and setting of the sun. By order of the Adjutant General.

COURT ADOPTED IN SYMPATHY.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—The United States court adjourned at 10 o'clock this morning out of respect to the memory of General Grant. Judge Bruce, in adjourning court, made a few eulogistic remarks. Flags are flying at half mast on the confederate and union armories have their hall draped in mourning.

PHILADELPHIA BIRDS BELLS. The ringing of the bell in the steeple of Independence hall this morning, and the tolling of General Grant's bell, the three strokes of the big bell, one each stroke of his life, was the signal of the sad event. It was fully expected, and the flags were run up to half mast in all directions, and before nine o'clock flags looped up with crepe and other emblems of mourning, appeared in front of many business places and private houses. Mayor Smith, who issued a call for the members of the several societies and associations to come together for a special meeting tomorrow to take action in regard to the death of the great soldier. The police department were also instructed to draped the sixteen houses. The commercial exchange, after adopting appropriate resolutions relative to the life of General Grant, and of condolence to Mrs. Grant and family, adjourned, as a mark of respect to the deceased. The exchange will also be closed on the day of General Grant's funeral. The following message was sent from here today to Mrs. General Grant:

"I am filled with great sorrow of General Grant's death. I offer the full measure of sympathy."

SAN J. RANDALL.

GALVESTON, July 23.—The announcement of the death of General Grant was received here, his old home where he went to the war, with most profound sorrow. On receipt of the news the church bells were tolled and the flags on the custumhouse and all public buildings were displayed at half mast. Many public buildings, churches, business houses and private residences were draped in emblems of mourning. General W. R. Bowley, the only surviving member of the old commander's staff, and now the only survivor of the great military family circle, and who died but a few weeks ago, is present with grief. Business in the city is practically suspended, and the people are gathered in groups upon the streets, expressing the sorrow which his old neighbors feel. Mayor Barrett has called a meeting of the city council to make arrangements for a proper memorial service, to take place at the time of the funeral.

PITTSBURG AT HALF MAST.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 23.—The death of General Grant caused profound sorrow here this morning. The flags on all the public buildings, paper offices, mercantile houses and steamers were placed at half mast. A mass meeting of Grand Army members and of citizens generally will be called. Many buildings are draped in mourning.

OSWEGO JOINS IN GRIEF.

OSWEGO, N. Y., July 23.—Upon the announcement of General Grant's death, the bells at the city hall and various churches were tolled. Flags were displayed at half mast, and business houses are being draped in mourning.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—The ringing of the bell in the steeple of the First Presbyterian church, the signal of General Grant's death, was the signal of the sad event. It was the signal of the sad event. It was fully expected, and the flags were run up to half mast in all directions, and before nine o'clock flags looped up with crepe and other emblems of mourning, appeared in front of many business places and private houses. Mayor Smith, who issued a call for the members of the several societies and associations to come together for a special meeting tomorrow to take action in regard to the death of the great soldier. The police department were also instructed to draped the sixteen houses. The commercial exchange, after adopting appropriate resolutions relative to the life of General Grant, and of condolence to Mrs. Grant and family, adjourned, as a mark of respect to the deceased. The exchange will also be closed on the day of General Grant's funeral. The following message was sent from here today to Mrs. General Grant:

"I am filled with great sorrow of General Grant's death. I offer the full measure of sympathy."

GENERAL JOHNSON'S OPINION.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Post says:

"General Joseph E. Johnston, on being questioned concerning his estimate of General Grant, said:

"His appointment as general in chief of the armies of the United States certainly brought the civil war to a close sooner than it otherwise could have been accomplished. After he assumed full command of the federal forces he organized two armies against which we were unable to contend with any degree of success."

THE NEWS ABROAD.

Mr. Gladstone Writes His Words of Sympathy.

London, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant has created a profound impression in this city. The flag at the American exchange and at the American consulate were placed at half mast. A mass meeting of Grand Army members and of citizens generally will be called. Many buildings are flying at half mast, and the feeling of sorrow is very general.

—A MARK OF RESPECT.

CHICAGO, July 23.—The Chicago board of trade unanimously voted to adjourn at twelve o'clock today, as a mark of respect to the memory of General Grant.

IN GRANT'S OLD HOME.

ST. LOUIS, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here with profound regret. He had lived here for many years and was regarded as a fellow citizen. The fire alarm bells were tolled for eighteen minutes. Flags were put at half mast, and the United States court adjourned. Several posts of the Grand Army of the Republic have called a meeting to arrange to send delegates to his funeral.

GRIEF IN DEPUNIC SPRINGS.

DEPUNIC SPRINGS, Fla., July 23.—General Grant's death is mourned by Florida. The Florida tabanous buildings are draped in mourning, bells are tolling and minute guns are firing, out of respect of the "dead warrior." Grief is universal among all classes.

THE NEWS IN AMERICA.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23.—The announcement of General Grant's death was received here with deep regret by all classes. All the public places, general, state and city, were closed. The flags over the customhouse and state house are at half mast, and the bells are tolling.

KENTUCKY GRIEVES FOR AN HONEST FOE.

LOUISVILLE, July 23.—The bells are tolling throughout the city, and on receipt of the news of General Grant's death the city and government flags were hung at half mast.

MOUING GOOD EXHAUSTED.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 23.—The flags on the public buildings were displayed at half mast out of respect to the memory of General Grant. A dispatch from Baton Rouge says that immediately on receipt of the news there of the death of General Grant, Governor McEnery issued a proclamation ordering the flags to be placed at half mast, and the state capitol draped in mourning.

Governor McEnery's proclamation contains the following:

"Even he was still bearing some agony with mortal tortures, the sad eulogies of his countrymen expressed their grief, now to be uttered with deep lamentations. The great and noble captain of our country, the brave and magnanimous leader who is remembered by honor by soldiers of all countries. The news of his magnanimous and heroic conduct as president, the love people, with our own, do just honor to his memory, and remember those who are made desolate by his death. Let us, therefore, let our guns be fired tomorrow (Friday) between sun rise and sun set, and on the day which may be set apart for his funeral, let the flags on all state offices will be closed, and the flags on all the public buildings be displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

YONKERS, N. Y., July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

THE RAINY DAYS AT WEST POINT.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The news of the death of General Grant was received here this morning, and is the all absorbing theme of conversation. The whole city is pervaded with gloom, while the flags on the public buildings and on many business houses and residences are displayed at half mast.

Lincoln's death Grant was decidedly the most popular man in the United States."

The Daily Telegraph devotes two columns to a review of

THE CONSTITUTION

Published Daily and Weekly.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION IS PUBLISHED EVERY DAY IN THE WEEK, AND IS DELIVERED BY CARRIERS IN THE CITY, OR MAILED, POSTAGE FREE, AT $1 PER MONTH, $2.50 FOR THREE MONTHS, OR $10 A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTION IS FOR SALE ON ALL TRAINS LEADING OUT OF ATLANTA, AND AT NEWS STANDS IN THE PRINCIPAL SOUTHERN CITIES.

ADVERTISING RATES DEPEND ON LOCATION IN THE PAPER, AND WILL BE FURNISHED ON APPLICATION.

CORRESPONDENCE CONTAINING IMPORTANT NEWS SOLICITED FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS, AND MAKE ALL DRAFTS OR CHECKS PAYABLE TO

THE CONSTITUTION,

Atlanta, Ga.

"OLD ROOK,"

BY MAURICE THOMPSON,

WILL BE PUBLISHED IN

THE CONSTITUTION OF SUNDAY, THE 26TH.

This is a dialect story of the mountains of northern Georgia, dealing with the wild life of mountainers during the war. Mr. Thompson holds a distinct place among American writers. His "Witchery of Archery," his serial story of "Robin Hood" in St. Nicholas, with numerous other articles and poems, have made him a well-known poet of archery. His novels, "A Tallahassee Girl," "His Second Childhood," and numerous short stories in the magazine, place him among the most charming delineators of southern character. His last story in the Century (March, 1885) "Hodson's Hide-Out," is laid in the same locality as the one we will publish, and is a charming piece of story-telling.

ATLANTA, JULY 24, 1885.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states at 1 a. m.: Occasional light, local rains; winds generally southerly, and slight change in temperature.

QUEEN VICTORIA has disposed of her youngest daughter, Beatrice, who, yesterday, married Prince Henry, of Battenburg. This concludes the list of those who become dependent on the English government by marriage into the royal family. In a pecuniary way Prince Henry has done a great day's work.

Two professional baseball players were prostrated by heat in New York on Tuesday, and when such men drop out we may be sure the weather is very much like a furnace. For several days the mercury, in most of the states, has hovered about 100 degrees, but here in Atlanta it has scarcely got out of the estates. Our merits as a summer resort are appreciated as they should be.

Two letters from great men have been given to the public this week. Mr. Blaine writes to Mahone's candidate for governor covering him with taunt and wishing him success. The other letter is from Mr. Bradford B. Hayes, who is applying to an application for a shipment of choice toys, says "we'll raise only ends for our" and "we're Fremont men to the ranks; for if he is not a poultier, what is he?"

The Boston Herald thinks the south should take the lead in the establishment of industrial schools, because the need of them is so much greater in the south than it is in the north. In the north there are hundreds of factories in which young people can acquire trades, while in the south there are few or no such opportunities. The absence of the apprenticeship system and the planting of manufacturing industries in this section, have rendered industrial schools one of the greatest needs of the south. Our Boston contemporary has a clear as well as a great head.

UNITED STATES Treasurer Jordan claims it is the duty of the secretary of the treasury to keep $100,000,000 in gold as a fund for the redemption of greenbacks, and he, therefore, deducts that amount from the amount of gold on hand to ascertain the amount of available gold. The New York Sun, after searching the statute books, says there is no law for this position. In a national bank bill the secretary is directed to suspend the issue of gold certificates whenever the amount of gold in the treasury falls below $100,000,000, and the inference may be that the gold reserve below that point can be used for redemption purposes only. The inference is, however, not very plain, and certainly it can not be claimed that the amount of reserve is in express terms fixed at the sum named or any other sum.

THE DEATH OF GENERAL GRANT. With the clearing of the early mist yesterday morning, which hovered over Mount McGregor, passed away the soul of General Grant, the most distinguished of living Americans.

The general commanding the victorious armies of his country, and twice the president of the republic, Washington alone of all men in our history has equalled him in honor.

General Grant was a great commander. The operations of the war in which he was the leading figure of the union armies, were colossal. Its expenses to his government were over $4,000,000 a day. In the siege of Richmond he lost 70,000 men, and in a single charge saw 3,000 men struck down. The comprehension that grasped this tremendous situation, and the fortitude that endured its awful disasters was of itself greatness. The clear-sighted sense that moved straight forward amid these bewildering scenes, undeterred and undeviating, was military genius.

General Grant did not have the tactical skill, the vast resources, the superb inspiration and the finer qualities of leadership that General Lee had, in our opinion, in richer measure than any man that ever led men to battle. He lacked the audacious spirit that made Stonewall Jackson irresistible. In the place of either of these generals, he would have fallen far short of what they accomplished. But as the leader of the exhaustless armies of the north, the iron-willed and absolute master, to hammer these legions against the valiant shell of the confederacy he was the man of destiny.

As a statesman he was honest, but without the larger wisdom of humanity or statescraft—sincere but credulous—sphinx-like to the world, but easy to his countrymen—stubby where he should have listened anxiously, and facile where he should have been stolid. In business, he was weaker than in politics. In both, it must be said that his personal record was clean, and that he came stainless as to his own character from contact with thieves and plotters.

It is as the great soldier—brave, simple, generous and victorious—that he will be best remembered. It is as the soldier, even though his sword struck down her cause, that the south loves to remember him. As the conqueror of Lee, refusing to take the sword of that great leader, whose heart broke when he surrendered his army; as the thoughtful victor, feeding his starving enemies from his own wagons; as the high-minded man of honor, demanding the integrity of his parole at the hands of the vindictive secretary of war; as the dauntless man standing alone, but determined, between the helpless south and the angry north—he held, as he deserved in all his trials, the deepest and fullest sympathy of our people. He died as he had lived—brave, silent, uncompaining. He fought against death with manful strength, and when he was overpowered, bowed his head without a word. When his life went out, a great name passed into history, and a great soul was still forever.

BETTER INSURANCE FACILITIES.

The property owners of Georgia desire and demand better insurance facilities. As the situation stands at present we have 103 towns in the state with populations ranging from 500 to 50,000, and of this number about 25 have a water supply and an organized fire department. This leaves 78 towns in which it is almost impossible to get insurance, as the leading companies now doing business in the state refuse to establish agencies or issue policies at places without a fire department and a water supply.

Unfortunately for our people the deposit requirement is a part of the constitution and cannot without too much expense be repealed. The legislature, however, can reduce the deposit to any sum, even down as low as one dollar. This is required and demanded by the good people of the small towns and the large property owners of the state. Augusta, Columbus, Savannah, and other large places with their heavy manufacturing and naval stores interests, cannot place their insurance with the companies now in the state, and they cannot without violating the law place it out through a broker, and should they deal directly with an outside company, in case of loss the company, under the law, could not send an adjustor or attorney to investigate the loss.

We all feel confident that a modification of the constitution will be made to meet our demands. We can afford to see a new short line established and flanking us by the right or the left. We must maintain Atlanta's title as the gate city, and make her more than ever the highway through which trade and people come and go.

To secure the Georgia Midland, Atlanta must subscribe liberally to the building of it. She cannot do this as a corporation. Her liberal-minded, public-spirited citizens must come to her rescue and make up what is needed. Our chamber of commerce must take the lead in the matter. Columbus has shown what she will do, and she has done greatly in this behalf.

DANOTA, according to the census now nearly completed, will show a population of barely

425,000 instead of the 500,000, and even 600,000

which were so confidently claimed when it was first organized.

Nor is it at all unlikely that even the lower figure is absolutely correct, for the rush to take land in this section of the state is unprecedented, and the sales of negroes are almost unparalleled, and a good many of the residents of the territory are residents only in name.

The STATE CONVENTION.

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Thunder and Milk.

Subcriber, Ocala, Fla.: How can milk be produced in the tropics?

The claim has long been made that thunder can exert some influence over the milk. The case is that thunder can exert such an influence. At the same time, the action of lightning upon the gases of the atmosphere may have an effect upon milk that is ascribed to the thunder.

In response to an eager thump there should follow a dead and meaty sound, and the milk should weigh not less than twenty-five pounds.

After it is pulped, it should be split from end to end with a short-bladed pocket knife, so that in tearing it open the glowing and juicy heart, burst loose from its confinement, should find a long and narrow channel to the outside.

At this point the milk should be heated to be fusing. For a moment the eye should be closed to feast itself on the vision thus suddenly brought to view, then the heart should be scooped out with the hand, and its meadowlark meat thrust upon the hot and thirsty palate.

There ought to be something savage in the enjoyment of a watermelon.

It ought to be crushed and swallowed with avidity. The man who knows how to enjoy one, will come away from the fray with the sweets in his beard, in his hair, and on his clothes.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Sunday School People of Georgia in Session.

ROME, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The State Sunday school convention assembled at 9 o'clock this morning.

The proceedings were opened with devotional exercises. "Near My God to Thee" was sung with great spirit by the audience. Other songs followed. The devotional exercises were led by Mr. L. B. Davis and the music by Prof. McIntosh.

The call of country was resumed and was responded to by delegates from the different counties.

Vice president Grigsby E. Thomas of Calhoun addressed the convention on the subject of county organizations and the best method of organizing them.

Secretary Courtney spoke on "A Model Sunday School." His ideas were well received and were well received.

Professor W. F. Slaton explained the lesson of Jesus on the subject of the "Fishers of men."

He took the opportunity to say that he believed in god's providence: there are no such things as accidents.

He also spoke of the negroes in the past as well as in the past.

Professor Slaton's remarks received close attention.

Dr. J. W. Hopkins, of Emory, college, then addressed the convention on "Childhood and the home." The address was an able and scholarly one, and produced a deep impression.

A resolution was introduced memorializing the senate on the local option bill, but the resolution was strongly in favor of temperance, but seemed indispensed to mix anything like politics with its proceedings.

PERSONAL POINTS.

The Trial of Lane for the Murder of White on Hand.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The summer term of Baldwin's superior court is in session. Judge Lawson in the chair. Beside the ordinary, judge and criminal business, two important murder cases are undergoing trial.

Bill Todd, the murderer of "Free Joe" Edwards, the unfortunate Eatonton negro, was convicted of murder yesterday, the jury recommending to the court a life sentence.

The case of Henry Lane, for killing W. M. Whitten, because the latter made improper advances to his wife, will come up for trial.

Solicitor General Whitfield was called to Jasper by telegraph, by telegram, to visit his brother, Wm. W. Whiting, who is lying at the point of death.

Colonel Watt, Wingfield is acting in his place as solicitor-general.

Colonels Lofton and Horne, of Macon; Jordan and Little of Sparta; Wingfield, of Eatonton; Dr. Dugay and Preston, of Monticello, are attending court.

THE STOCK LAW CONTEST.

ELMONT, Ga., July 22.—[Special.]—The most intense interest is centered on the legal contest now pending in this country, before the ordinary on the stock law question, which comes up before the ordinary for a hearing on the third of August. Both parties have retained good legal counsel and every inch of ground will be warmly contested. Yesterday morning some infamous scoundrels sent through the mail a telegram to the fence party that had been organized and sworn to burn his house. The indignation of the fence party that had been organized and sworn to burn his house.

The correspondent of the American Hebrew, who states that married ladies in Savannah play poker for big money in the parlor, should turn his attention to writing snake stories. As it is, he is merely making a reputation as a stupid sinner.

"WHAT WILL TEXAS DO THIS Year?" is the caption of an editorial in the Galveston News. She will be sure to annoy their opponents.

THE COMING SUMMER RESORT.

Atlanta ought to be proud of her weather.

We are tempted to say that it is the best weather in the world. If there has been a hot night in Atlanta this summer, we have been asleep while it was here.

Last Wednesday was the hottest day of the season. Let us see how the thermometer stood in notable points. In Atlanta the highest point was 89. In New York it was 90, in Philadelphia and Chicago, 101 and 101 1/2; in Philadelphia, 100; in the seashore, thirty miles from Cape May, in was 99; in Gainesville, Ga., it was 92, and in Toccoa 94. This is the official record for the day. In the night it was literally too cool for ladies to sit in an open piazza without a light shawl. Day before yesterday the record was even stronger in Atlanta's favor. The thermometer did not pass 89 during the day in the city. Gainesville was 94, Toccoa 101, Macon 96, Cartersville 96 and Dalton 101.

As we write people are dying by the hundreds in the cities of the north, and sweltering on the sands of the southern seashores. And on we write, the tag on the custom house marks still in the breeze that carries greeting from Kenesaw to Stone mountain—the streets are filled with busy traffic—travel and pleasure are alike unimpeded—and, barring the idiot who keeps telling you how hot it is, there is little to suggest in Atlanta the tortures of heat endured by the other cities of the country. This is not remarkable—Atlanta is situated higher above the level of the sea than any cities of more than 20,000 people in the country except Leadville and Denver. Perched 1,100 feet above the sea, on a breezy-swept plateau among the mountains, there is no reason why she should not be, and every reason why she should be, the great summer resort of the south.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION.

It is becoming a subject of much thought lately, whether the people are deriving the great good from free schools that was anticipated.

That it is better to have the people educated no one denies, but how it shall be done, and what is the proper kind of education, is the question. The fact is apparent that we are filling our state with superficially educated men and women, who have a smattering of everything from the spelling book to Greek. A close observer, competent to give an opinion on the subject, said, not long ago, that one-half of the graduates of the high schools in the cities of this state did not have a thorough and perfect knowledge of the multiplication table, three-fourths did not know the Roman numerals, and none were perfect spellers, but they all knew a little about Greek and Latin. Whether this is the fault of the teachers or the system, or both, we are unable to say, but there is truth in the statement. An educated man makes a useful citizen, but he must be properly educated. If he is superficially educated he will make a superficial man and hence make a failure. Our fathers had much poorer facilities for procuring education than we have, but they made thorough men. They were given the practical parts of an education and built on that.

The city of Atlanta is spending a large sum to keep up high schools. We think it would be better to increase the number of grammar schools and if a higher school is required it should be supported by taxation, that it should take the shape of education in some practical sense. A high school that would turn out young men as skilled mechanics, and young women thoroughly educated in domestic arts, would be a great blessing. Our people are taxed to make professional men in our schools and colleges—we mean lawyers and doctors. Nine out of ten of the graduates are unfit for anything else. If we want a superintendent for a cotton mill, a foundry, a mine, a railroad or anything, we have to send somewhere else to get him. This is all improper and the defect should be supplied. If any one considers the large part of our college graduates that are incapable of devoting themselves to practical business matters, they will at once see that there is some defect in our system, and we command the subject to our legislators as one that needs reform.

THE JEWISH POPULATION OF PARIS HAS GROWN SINCE 1789 FROM 500 TO 50,000 OR MORE, AND JEWS ARE TO BE FOUND IN GREAT NUMBERS IN EVERY BRANCH OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

NEBRASKA has practically completed her state census, and claims an increase of population from 452,000 to over 700,000 since 1880. The population of Omaha is placed at 61,885.

FARM school books cost Brooklyn $87,250 in 1884, and as $91,250 in the amount appropriated in 1885, it is not improbable that the annual expenditure will soon make a round $100,000.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

THE Young Men's Christian association of Boston have sent one hundred poor children to Martha's Vineyard to stay two weeks, paying all their expenses.

W. H. PATTERSON,
BOND AND STOCK BROKERS,
54 Pryor Street.

WANTED—Atlanta City bonds.
Georgia railroad ex. 1810, $225,000 face value.
Georgia state 7%, 1884, $1,000,000 face value.
G. C. & A. 1st mort. 7%,
$1,000,000 face value.

SAVINGS DEPARTMENT
With interest on Deposits.

WE ENCOURAGE AND STIMULATE THE DEDICATION TO SERVICE AND DEDICATE TO OUR COUNTRY.

The Gate City National Bank has instituted a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, and on the first day of January 1885, it will issue TIME CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT, bearing 7% INTEREST, INVESTMENT CERTIFICATES, not less than $500.

President Gate City National Bank
W. S. MCGRANAHAN, Cashier. 1st col 6c.

JAMES' BANK.

Established 1865.
DOES AN EXCHANGE AND BANKING BUSINESS.
Accounts of banks, merchants and others thankfully received. Allows interest on time deposit City collections made.

JOHN E. JAMES, BAKER.

HUMPHREYS CASTLEMAN

BROKER AND DEALER IN

BONDS & STOCKS,

Office 12 East Alabama St., Atlanta, Ga.

FOR SALE—State City and R. B. Bonds.

Will collect dividends on Railroad and other Bonds free of charge for the service.

WANTED—All kinds of first-class Securities.

George R. R., and Banking Co., Stock.

FOR SALE—SEVENTY-FIVE (75) SHARES OF THE ABOVE STOCK.

An annual dividend of 10 percent, free of all tax, is guaranteed on this stock, and the interest on the same is to be paid quarterly—$7.50 per share. Terms cash.

JACK J. SPALDING, Trustee,
63 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Bonds, Stocks and Money.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
ATLANTA, July 22, 1885.

Money in fair supply exchange and rates unchanged.

New York exchange buying at 10% per annum; selling at 9% premium.

STATE AND NATIONAL BONDS—Md. Asked.

St. Louis Asked. R. B. Bonds Co.

St. Louis Asked. R. B.

$2 CAPITAL PRIZE $75,000.

Tickets Only $5, Shares in Propor-

L.S.D.

LOUISIANA STATE LOTTERY COMPANY

"We do hereby certify that we supervise the affairs of the Louisiana State Lottery Company and in person manage and control the direction and the management and that the same are conducted with the highest fidelity and in the strictest confidence, with a similitude of our signatures attached, in its advertisements."

*Ed. G. Thompson
At Early*

Commissioners.

Incorporated in 1863 for 25 years by the Legislature for educational and charitable purposes with a capital of $1,000,000 to which a reserve fund of over $50,000 has since been added. By the 1864 Constitution, the franchise was made a part of the present State Constitution adopted December 20, A. D. 1872.

The only lottery ever voted on and endorsed by the people is never sold or postponed.

Its grand single number drawings take a SENSATIONAL OPPORTUNITY TO WIN A FORTUNE, EIGHTH GRAND DRAWING CLASS H. IN THE ARTS & SCIENCES OF MUSIC, NEW ORLEANS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 11, 1885—1886 MONTHLY DRAWING.

Capital Prize, $75,000,

100,000 Tickets at Five Dollars Each, Franches, in Fifths, in Proportion.

LIST OF PRIZES.
1 CAPITAL PRIZE.	$75,000
1 do	25,000
1 do	10,000
2 PRIZES OF $6,000.	10,000
1 do	5,000
1 do	1,000
100 do	500
100 do	200
80 do	100
50 do	50
1,000 do	25

INFORMATION PRIZE

Approximation Prizes of $500.

9 " 250

1,000 Prizes amounting to $100.

Application for rates to clubs should be made only to the office of the company in New Orleans.

For further information write clearly, giving full address, to the company in New Orleans, New York, or New York exchange, in ordinary letter. Currency by express (all sums of $5 and upwards at our expense) addressed

M. A. DAUPHIN,
New Orleans, La.
or M. A. DAUPHIN,
100 Peachtree Street, at Washington, D. C.
Make P. O. Money Orders payable and address
Registered Letters to
NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK,
New Orleans, La.

MONEY TO LOAN.

GARS ON LIFE, ENDOWMENT AND TERM
life insurance policies same purchased. Address enclosing stamp for "insurance," box 140, P. O. Atlanta, Ga.

PROFESSIONAL ACADEMY.

D. R. C. MORELAND,
16 Spring Street, corner Luckie Street,
Free Practice on Saturday.
Office hours: 1 A. M. 8:30 to 11:30.
(T. M. 2:30 to 5:30).

W. P. HILL, Attorney at Law,
Office with United States Attorney, Atlanta, Ga.
John in

B. F. ABBOTT & SMITH,
Attorneys and Counselors at Law,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

S. A. REID, ATTORNEY AT LAW,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.
Office with Judge Turner. Also Office over Western Union Telegraph office, Mulberry Street,
Macon, Ga.

PHILIP B. ROBINSON,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

W. E. ANGIER, Attorney at Law,
Practice in All the Courts, State and Federal Collections receive prompt and constant attention. Room 22, City Hall, Atlanta, Ga.

MATTHEW FENTON, M. D.
GERMAN AND AMERICAN DISPENSARY
Treats all diseases peculiar to women. Publishes "Woman's Banner of Life." Send ten cents for new number. No. 7 North Broad Street.

L. W. THOMAS, Attorney at Law,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

THOMAS & JORDAN, Attorneys at Law,
Office over Atlanta National Bank, Atlanta, Ga.

L. S. LAWTON, ATTORNEY AT LAW,
No. 24 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

H. J. HAMMOND, J. C. ZACHRY, J. T. HAMMOND,
ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS AT LAW,
151 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

J. C. JENKINS, ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
Room 40, Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

E. A. ANGIER, Attorney at Law,
Practice in All the Courts, State and Federal Collections receive prompt and constant attention. Room 22, City Hall, Atlanta, Ga.

W. E. ATKINSON, Attorney at Law,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

W. E. ATKINSON, Attorney at Law,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

W. E. ATKINSON, Attorney at Law,
100 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

E. F. MACHOLIE, Contractor and Builder,
For Wood and Brick Buildings, Atlanta, Ga.
Office: Room 12, Fifteen Building, Atlanta, Ga.
Take care of your business.

ATLANTA SURGICAL INFIRMARY,
For males and females, No. 107 Marietta St.,
Atlanta, Ga., under the direction of Dr. J. M. G. F. GASTON, M. D.,
with competent assistants, and trained nurses.
Sun 8:30 a.m.

LOCHRANE & LOCHRANE,
O. A. LOCHRANE, 1 ELGIN LOCHRANE
Advise and Counsellors at Law.
Constitution Building, Atlanta, Ga.

I HAVE RESUMED THE PRACTICE OF LAW
in copartnership with my son, O. A. LOCHRANE,
Sun 8:30 a.m.

FAY & EICHBERG
ARCHITECTS.
19 SOUTH BROAD STREET,
ATLANTA, GA.

THE CONSTITUTION

EVENTS OF TO-DAY, JULY 24, 1885.

LEGISLATURE MEETS AT 9 A. M.

THROUGH THE CITY.

Paragraphs Picked Up Here and There by The Constitution Reporters.

The new city officers are moving along the electric lights will be continued until July next.

the advertisement of situation wanted by a lady in want column.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M.

Fife died yesterday at their home on Humsity Street.

The board of aldermen met in regular session and transacted considerable business yesterday afternoon. Nothing of importance was done.

Charles Loyd, a small white boy, whose name is Luckie street, yesterday fell from a tree and sustained a fracture of the right leg.

John Hudgings, the man who was arrested

right before last by Captain Crim, was yesterday transferred to DeKalb county, where he is wanted for dealing in other people's property.

Patricia Looney, who was suspended

yesterday before yesterday by order of

F. Fox, chairman of the board of police commissioners, will give a trial one night this week, probably Saturday night.

The street sweeper driver is having a rough time. The dust he creates at night is decidedly unpleasant, and persons sleeping along the route taken by the broom have been throwing bottles, stones and sticks from their windows.

Captain Wm. L. Ezzard, of the old First

Regiment, states that in the list of officers of that regiment published yesterday,

a mistake was made in putting down J. W.

Anderson as major. He was adjutant. The major was George Harvey Thompson.

Yesterday the governor offered two rewards.

One was a reward of $100, offered for the arrest of Edmund Cunningham, charged with the murder of Abelard Thomas in Worth county.

The other was a reward of $200, offered for the arrest of the unknown murderers of Thomas Waits in Worth county.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dean, through their son, George, have settled and compromised their claim against the city for a personal injury sustained by

Mr. Dean falling into a hole in the sidewalk,

Walker street, on the occasion of the fire

the night of the 11th of May.

The sheriff of Macon, C. O. Tynes, at the First Methodist church, at 4 P. M. yesterday was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. W. F. Glenn. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and the basket was covered with a profusion of white lilies. The remains were interred in Oak-cemetery.

Eugene Cough, son of Captain E. F. Cough,

and wife ill. Mr. Cough has been running on Atlanta, Georgia, for some time and was taken sick a few days ago at

Walker street, and is now at his father's home, on

Walker street. He has the fever, and is in a critical condition.

An old soldier of the confederacy remarked

a stranger near the cigar stand in the King-

house yesterday: "Well, poor Grant

is dead."

"Yes," remarked the other, "and he ought to have died thirty years ago."

"No, sir."

"Thought so—good day."

THE PAY TRAIN ROBBERY.

Farrants Have Been Sworn Out for the Rose Boys—Their Trial.

Yesterday Detective Mercer went before Judge

Tanner and swore out warrants for Charlie Rose,

George Rose, Nolan and Hart.

The charge was not specified in the warrant,

but it was to be filled out by Judge

H. H. Hart, attorney for the railroad. The railroad and yesterday instructed Mr. Matt O'Brien, the superintendent of Farrell's commercial democracy, to offer a reward for evidence fixing the guilty parties in the pay train robbery.

Mr. O'Brien, the paymaster, has reduced his allowance to $100 a month.

The pay train robbery will probably be given a preliminary hearing on Monday. The trial will be conducted by Mr. Jordan, as attorney and representative of the railroads.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

U. S. Court of Appeals, 100 Peachtree Street.

The trial will be held in the courtroom of the

Reduced Prices for Instruction

AT LYCÉE ART SCHOOL, 21 WHITEHALL, 100 New Franklin. Fine art materials for sale, painting, crayon, oil, water color and china painted, taught. Visitors invited. To be painted, taught.

TO THE TRADE.

IMPROVED FLY PANS
MILLVILLE FRUIT JARS

ICE CREAM REFRIGERATORS
GATE CITY STONE FILTERS,
Hotel and Saloon Fixtures.

Best Goods, Lowest Prices.

M C B RIDE'S,
32 Wall St., Opposite Pass. Depot.

"The Old Book Store,"
38 MARIETTA ST.,
OPPOSITE OPERA HOUSE.
CHEAP SCHOOL BOOKS.

WE ARE PREPARING FOR THE OPENING OF SCHOOLS, COLLEGES, ETC. TO PURCHASE IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES, BRING THEM IN.

FOR SALE.

Second hand school and college text books in splendid condition at low prices, to suit
all. Mail orders and inquiries receive prompt attention.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Observe's Office Royal Corps, U. S. A.

U. S. CUSTOM HOUSE, July 23, 10:00 P. M.
All observations taken at the same moment,
time at each place named:

	Barometer.	Wind.	Direction.	Velocity.	Weather.
Augusta	20.10.80	S	Light	50	Light
Savannah	20.12.80	S	Light	50	Fair
Jackson	20.12.80	S	Light	50	Fair
Montgomery	20.08.80	N	Light	50	Clear
New Orleans	20.01.82	S	Light	50	Clear
Galveston	20.07.83	S	Light	50	Clear

Cotton Belt Bulletin.
Observations Taken at 6 P. M.—7th Meridian
Time.

	Maximum	Average	Minimum	Relative
Atlanta, Ga.	87	76	60	80
Anderson, S. C.	87	75	62	80
Cartersville, Ga.	86	75	62	75
Calgary, Ga.	86	75	62	75
Dayton, Ga.	100	80	60	80
Gainesville, Ga.	95	75	60	75
Gainesville, S. C.	95	75	60	75
Grinnell, Iowa	95	75	60	75
Macon, Ga.	97	72	60	70
Newbern, N. C.	96	70	60	70
Spotsylvania, Va.	96	70	60	70
Toccoa, Ga.	93	71	55	70
West Point, Ga.	94	72	60	70

PERSONALS.

GENERAL ALEXANDER R. LAWTON is in the city on a visit.

Mr. JAMES B. COOK, of Contractors' Foster, is quiet at the Kimball.

Mr. JAMES BAKER, of Berrien county, is in the city with his family.

MISS BURKA LANIER and Dora Bora are visiting relatives in Fairburn, Ga.

Mr. WILLIAM M. LINDSAY, a very prominent business man of Atlanta, is in the city yesterday.

MISS CLAUDIA WATT, of Columbus, Ga., is in the city, the guest of Miss Emma B. Jones, 63
Walker street.

The many friends of Parker Camp, of 62
Walker street, will be sorry to hear of his serious illness with fever.

Mr. W. B. PIERCE, who has been visiting relatives on Walker street during the week, returned to his home in McDonough yesterday.

Ex-Sgt. STANLEY P. W. MELDRUM, of Savannah, who has been in Atlanta for the past few days, is in his room at the Hotel Atlantic, and left for home last night, where tomorrow he will affect an important case in the superior court.

SA. BRADFIELD, of Atlanta, who for the past few years has been living in Cartersville, has returned to Atlanta to live. His heating commence will hereafter ornamental the office of the kitchen.

Mr. P. M. BURTON, member of the state Senate of Iowa, is visiting Atlanta. He comes here as a representative of the Chicago Tribune, for the purpose of investigating the subject of political corruption and the large traffic of the south. We hope that Senator Burton will make himself at home while in Atlanta, and we now well pleased with his tour through the south.

Mr. BENJAMIN E. RUSSELL, of Bainbridge, managing editor of the Democrat, is in the city with his wife. Mr. RUSSELL is a man of every one, from the editorial rooms of the Constitution down to the news boys on the streets.
The Democrat is a paper of the south, and he will be never seen to buy a paper from the north.
The boy, giving as much as he can to encourage the people to buy as much as he can. Ben Russell's heart is in the ocean steamship and as true
as the needle to the pole.

AT THE KIMBALL, Mr. WILSON, E. W.
Immons, Baltimore, C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J.
Dugay, New York; W. H. Phillips, Philadelphia;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore; E. C. Cogges, Louisville; W. C. Mair,
Leavitt, N. C.; W. M. McElroy, New York; J. H. Hug-
hes, N. Y.; C. E. Cogges, G. C. H. Hughes, J. Bradford, N. Y.; M. Brown, New Orleans; J. W.
Crawford, Pensacola; D. G. Gordon, New
Orleans; J. W. C. Gordon, Pensacola; W. G. Setton,
Chicago; Mrs. Brown, Smyrna, Ga.; P. M.
Setton, Chicago; Dr. C. Townsend, Greenbrier;
Dr. W. G. Clark, Whaling, W. Va.; O. F. Parker, M.
C. H. Bag, Cincinnati; J. J. Dugay, New York;
B. W. Wright, Atlanta; D. H. Still, and
Milledgeville; L. S. Basyly, Al; J. C. Wagon, B. B.
Johnson, New York; W. B. Thomas, Atlanta; G. W.
Thomas, Carroll, Ga.; W. M. McElroy, Savannah;
B. S. Pease, Atlanta; W. H. McElroy, New York;
Baltimore;